Where: Nytorv, 1450 Copenhagen

When: 15-20 August from 10.00 to 20.00

WELCOME TO PRIDE WEEK 2022!

For the 26th time, we are ready to welcome you to Copenhagen Pride Week. We have been so excited to reveal the program, where you can find everything from human rights, culture, children's activities, a youth day, parties, concerts, and of course the big parade to round off the week in style. A massive thank you goes out to our incredible teams behind all these events!

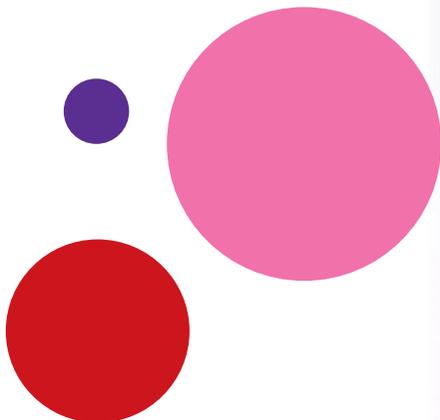

Last year, Copenhagen and Malmö hosted the mega event Copenhagen 2021, which covered both WorldPride and EuroGames. It was an intense and amazing experience that we will never forget – but it is very special to us to go back to a format that we know and love. Not without a few expansions and innovations, though!

The theme for this year is FREEDOM. It is something we have had plenty of opportunity to think about in the past few years. Freedom should be celebrated but never taken for granted. And in the nine days where the rainbow flag will fly over Copenhagen, we want the message to be clear: Nobody is truly free until we all have our freedom! And we are strongest together.

Welcome to Copenhagen Pride Week 2022!

BSP PROGRAM

BSP = BODY AND SEX POSITIVITY

Once again, you'll find BSP (body and sex positivity) events in the program. These events center around more sensitive and private subjects such as sexuality, sexual identity, the body, gender identity, and all the experiences you can have as an LGBTQIA+ person exploring yourself and the world around you. Our BSP content is presented through workshops, debates, presentations and salons, and these activities can include very specific details about gender, bodies, and sexual experiences, even if it isn't the main focus of the event. Unless otherwise stated, all genders and sexualities are welcome.

Since the topics of the BSP format deals with issues that can be sensitive, they require a more private space and for that reason there is a different set of guidelines for participants at these events, namely the following safer space guidelines:

The events will take place in a closed-off room where photography or filming is not allowed. Tagging the participants on social media is also not allowed.

Doors close when the event begins. To avoid interruptions, it will NOT be possible to arrive late for BSP events. Please be on time.

What happens in the room, stays in the room. Respect the discretion of all participants and do not discuss the event or mention personal information obtained from the event with people who were not present.

BSP events create an intimate space for LGBTQIA+ people, and fortunately we know from experience that the majority of participants understand how to behave and know how to act with mutual respect and practice inclusivity. Bring a friend or come by yourself. Meet new people, stay curious and open-minded. Together, we are so much better.

The project is supported by the Statens Kunstfonds Huskunstnerordning. QLUBBI is a group course for young LGBTQAI + people who, in addition to being a minority, also struggle with other problems.

How was it to be queer in the course of Copenhagen’s history? The lives of those who have loved contrary to society’s conventions has changed considerably over the last 1000 years. At 10 stops in the Museum of Copenhagen’s permanent exhibition, we dive into stories of people who have stood out from the norms of their time. Enter the museum’s permanent exhibition on the first floor and point your smartphone camera at the QR code in your preferred language and you will hear the story. Language:

RAYMONDE GAUNOUX

The Danish-American musician Raymonde Gaunoux has worked for many years to make queer and trans identity in the music industry visible through his music. In terms of genre, there is inspiration from artists like David Bowie, Prince, Gillian Welch, Cat Power et al. while the songs rarely follow a straight path. They often deviate from a decidedly pop template and every song becomes almost an adventure of its own. Raymonde's songs reflect on processes – both physically, mentally and spiritually.

RAIN

Rain is a dance performance which is based on the things we can feel but cannot change. An exploration of feelings like powerlessness, a feeling of wanting to break free, and how we can cope with what we can't control. Let the water run down my cheeks and take over the feelings that I can't do anything about. Let the sky wash away the unrest that grows like weeds inside of me. Because what can you do about the rain pouring down?

REVEAL PARTY

Emily Holm Nyhuus, the woman behind the name Reveal Party, writes songs about existing in a chaos of complicated emotions and how one may have to cut off any connection to them when they get too difficult. Reveal Party tells stories of love and her life as a trans woman with a tongue-in-cheek, spitting sarcasm. The sources of inspiration are both painful midwest emo and uplifting pop songs, and therefore Reveal Party's music sounds of both melancholy and hope.

Venue: Pride Week Stage

19.00-19.45

SANDER SANCHEZ

Sander Sanchez is a young singer/songwriter who is half Danish and half Native American. His musical style is very dynamic and reflective – and is inspired by great messages with poetic depth, which is delivered with a catchy vocal that crawls under the skin at the first listen. The aesthetics are colorful, and in terms of genre, he is playful and moves effortlessly between pop with roots in the 80s, hip hop blues, soul, r&b, rock, funk, and EDM, which meet in an explosive and solid expression.

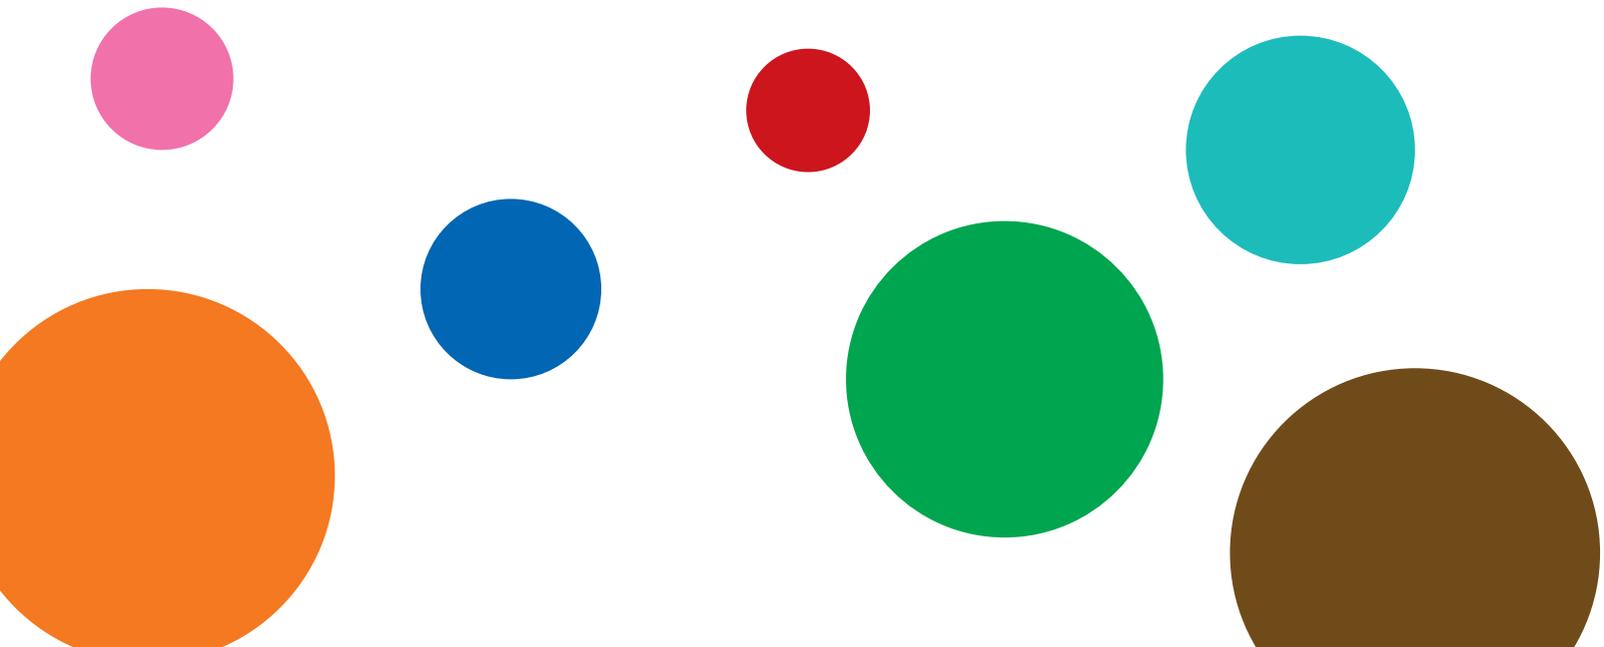

Venue: Urban Garden Stage

21.00-21.45

UBLU

UBLU plays dance rock for queers and their peers in a world in between angsty 00s rock and synth pumping fetish clubs. With teasing and effervescent melodies, they sing about haunted warehouse raves, crushed or confused hearts, and the euphoria of being glamorous and stupid. UBLU is ABBA for goths. UBLU does not believe in love after Cher. UBLU is a bad romance between the tragicomic and the sincerely sentimental. Everything about UBLU is sexy and everything about UBLU is cringe.

COPENHAGEN CHILDREN'S PRIDE 2022

A creative and safe space for rainbow children and anyone else who wishes to celebrate diversity in a calm and free environment.

Inspired by the family area during Copenhagen 2021, we wish to create a space for children and their adults again in 2022. We have fallen in love with Rådhushaven, which has everything we want for this group: it's beautiful, natural, and right behind the symbol of Copenhagen Pride, City Hall Square.

We will host a small amount of creative and rhythmic activities that the whole family can take part in. All in the same aesthetic spirit that the garden represents with an emphasis on coziness, play, and being together.

THE GOVERNMENT'S VISION FOR LGBTI+

Denmark has a reputation as a country at the forefront on LGBTI+ matters, but statistics on well-being and health shows that LGBTI+ persons are still subject to inequality, lack of inclusion, and in worst case scenarios hatred and violence. How will the government work to ensure that Denmark can lead the way regarding rights and well-being for LGBTI+ persons? ANTI-RACISM AND LGBT+ POLITICS

On 24 January 2022, the Ministry of Justice announced that they want to make an action plan to combat racism. Alongside a number of actors within the field of anti-racism, Sabaah has made a draft of the action plan. In this panel, we have invited a group of people from the anti-racism and discrimination communities to focus on how racism and LGBTI+ agenda are interlocked and to share experiences in working with intersectional anti-discriminatory work.

On the backdrop of a new anthology, which describes a number of norm-critical perspectives on pedagogical practice, we will share some of the many interesting examples of practice from the book. We will both provide concrete examples and ask open questions to the audience and panel concerning some of the challenges pedagogues face when trying to establish a norm critical practice. To-

Many LGBTI+ asylum seekers are rejected because the authorities believe them to be lying about their gender identity and/or their sexual orientation. But how do you prove that you are transgender, bi, or homosexual? A panel will discuss the authorities approach to these credibility assessments. They will offer a suggestion on how the problems arise and how they can be solved.

EXPECTATIONS TO MY BODY VOL. 1

HISTORY: THE LGBTI+ FETISH COMMUNITY

SLM Copenhagen is – with its 48 years – one of the oldest fetish clubs in Europe and also one of the oldest associations in the Danish LGBTI+ community. For this debate we will place the fetish movement as a vital part of the community, where it has had a significant role within the Pride movement; both before, during, and after the Stonewall riots in the USA and in the rest of the world.

THE FIGHT FOR THE PERSONAL STORY

The personal story is, on one hand, an effective and often used tool in the fight against marginalized and stereotypical understandings of minorities. On the other hand it is also a burden for many minorities that often have the responsibility imposed in answering to other people's curiosity. In this debate, we will ask persons that either have opted out or actively chosen the personal story in their work to nuance our understanding of the value of the personal story in anti-discriminatory work. Language: Danish

THE PERFECT NONBINARY

Nonbinary people get more and more recognition and are more visible, both within the community but also in the society at large. However, this often comes with the expectation that nonbinary people look and act in specific ways; they look and dress androgenously and they love the color green. Why do society have this expectation of the "perfect" nonbinary, and where does it leave the rest of the nonbinary population? We challenge this notion of the perfect nonbinary and focus on the separation of expression and style from gender. Language: Danish

Meet the authors Vivi Jelstrup, Sinus Reuss and Christina E. Ebbesen who write for different target groups in different genres: Contemporary history, fantasy, and young adult literature. One of the things that they all have in common is that LGBTI+ representation plays a key role in their books. Meet the authors when they talk about representation and diversity in literature for both young people and adults. Hear readings from their works and participate in the subsequent Q&A. Language: Danish

How can we develop more supportive communities that can support and help each other? Come join us as we engage in a conversation on mental well being in the LGBTI+ community. Language: Danish

This summer night Pride and poetry go hand in hand when we present poetry slam centered around gender, body and queerness. A strong line up of amazing slam-performers will perform with humor and edge. Thought provoking entertainment. About all that makes life difficult, but also worth living. It will be the audience that gives the performers points and decides who will be crowned the best slammer of the night. But remember: The points are not the point – the point is poetry. The activists are not deterred. DOES GOD HAVE A GENDER?

The topic of the panel discussion will be about whether God has a specific gender? What does it mean for our understanding of God that we often describe God as a man? And what does it mean for us as humans, and for Christianity as a religion, that it has always been this way? The panel will consist of pastors and theologians who are queer themselves and/or have worked with feminist or queer theology. Language: English

TRANS PEOPLE'S RIGHT TO HEALTHCARE

In 2022, LGBT+ Denmark published a report which sheds light on some of the barriers that transgender people in Denmark face in their encounter with the healthcare system. Based on the report's conclusions, a panel of actors in the trans field will debate experiences and challenges in trans people's encounter with the health service. Together, we will look at solutions that could create a more equal access to health for all – regardless of gender identity, gender expression or gender characteristics. Language: Danish

WHAT DOES SEX MEAN TO YOU?

Sex is often spoken about as a crucial part of a happy life. But is it true to everyone? In this conversational salon we will discuss what role sex actually plays in the participants' life – from both an asexual and allosexual (i.e. non-asexual) perspective. Is sex paramount, fine, tolerable, or is it an absolute no go? Come listen – maybe you will get a new perspective on what sex can and cannot be. Is sex really as important as you think? Language: Danish

THREE CHEERS FOR WOKE CAPITALISM?

There has been a flurry of popular books recently denouncing the global cynical C-suite capitalists who exploit diversity and who fake corporate morality to maintain their position of power in a highly exploitative system. Interestingly, these complaints can be heard on left-wing community radio stations and on Fox News. At this event, the panel members apply a form of 'strategic naivety' to discuss the existence of 'woke capitalism' and its implications for diversity and inclusion. Language: English

BI+ COMMUNITIES

Several foreign studies have shown that bi+ people make up at least 50% of all LGBTI+ people. But where do we find the bi+ bar? And bi+ groups outside Copenhagen? It is important to meet others who feel "a bit like oneself", in order to form a harmonious self-image and thus be able to thrive. But bi+ people are rarely "out and proud", and therefore it can be difficult to find those who will put a lot of work into creating and maintaining new initiatives. This will be debated by a panel speaking from different perspectives in relation to age and geography. Language: Danish

CO-FATHERS' LACK OF RIGHTS

Søren Juliussen has submitted a citizens' initiative to give co-fathers the same legal recognition as co-mothers already have. The distortion has consequences for both children and fathers, i.e. in the meeting with the health care service, day care and in case of illness or death. In a few days, the citizens' proposal received enough signatures to be presented to the Danish parliament. At this event Søren and other fathers will share their perspectives on the significance the recognition of co-paternity will have for everyday family life. Language: Danish

SOCIALLY RESPONSIBLE SURROGACY

A large majority in the Danish parliament has declared its support for a citizens' initiative to recognize co-paternity in Danish law. The government has since set up a working group to investigate the possibilities of surrogacy in Denmark, in order for two men to have the opportunity of starting a family. But how do we create a legal and ethically sound model of surrogacy that ensures the necessary rights for both the child, the woman carrying the baby, and the intended parents? Language: Danish

The panel focuses on forgotten stories about women's (meaning all AFAB persons who were referred to as women at the time) relationships with women in the late 1800s and early 1900s. While men's sexual relationships were criminalized, neither sex nor dancing between women was illegal. On the contrary, some sources indicate that there was a lively 'lesbian' culture in Copenhagen

In Denmark, primary school students are taught sex education, but why does the teaching stop after the 9th grade? BETWEEN FUNDING AND FREEDOM

The work of many LGBTI+ organizations depends on the financial support they can obtain from political bodies. A support that, on the one hand, is treasured because it enables the important work many of us do. But also a support that can have a limiting effect on the organizations' interest in criticizing, e.g. politicians, for fear of losing their support. In this debate, we invite a number of politicians and LGBTI+ organizations to a dialogue on the balance between funding and freedom. Language: Danish

THURSDAY 18 AUGUST: COPENHAGEN PRIDE YOUTH DAY

On Thursday 18 August, the Copenhagen Pride Youth Team has been allowed to develop the program for Pride Square. A DJ line-up and live music performance will help keep the celebration of diversity going in the evening in Pride Square, and during the day there will be the opportunity to participate in workshops and debates, as well as meet other organizations that have the same agenda as ourselves.

The day aims to put the young LGBTI + people on a well-deserved pedestal, where their different forms of expression, creativity, and activism can be displayed in a lot of different manifestations. In the Youth Team, we think that the youth we see today have an inspiring spark and spirit for the world we live in and how we can use it and be in it – and it seems we should be celebrated and shown on every occasion we get.
